ABOUT SEMINAR

A patent system is a unique way of advancing technological progress of the society. The patentee applies a patent, providing the public full disclosure of an invention to obtain exclusive rights of making, using, and selling an invention for the term of the patent. After the patent term expires, the exclusive right expires as well and the public would be able to make and use the invention freely. All patent documents contain a title, an abstract, a description, and one or more claims. Most of patent documents also include one or more drawings.

Why is IPR Important? Intellectual property protection is critical to fostering innovation. Without protection of ideas, business and individuals would not reap the full benefits of their inventions and would focus less on research and development.

IP is protected in law by, for example, patents, copyright and trademarks, which enable people to earn recognition or financial benefit from what they invent or create. By striking the right balance between the interest of innovators and the wider public interest, the IP system aims to foster an environment in which creativity and innovation can flourish.

Seminar on IPRP-Registration of patent

AIET conduct a seminar on IPRP-Registration of patent on 16/9/2020 for which around 87 numbers of all branches of faculty are participated. Dr. R. SIVA SANKARA RAJU, Associate professor, AITAM, TEKKALI, was invited as the Resource Person for the Seminar. He elaborated on the importance of IPRP-Registration of patent properly. In this seminar he explained In today's globally competitive environment, intellectual property has placed itself on a pedestal in the context of economic growth and is becoming increasingly important. Intellectual Property (IP) is the fuel that powers the engine of prosperity, fostering invention and innovation. The increasing significance of intangible assets in the global economy is forcing business organizations to actively manage their IP as a key driver for building and sustaining their competitive advantage and achieving superior performance. He stated that networking is very much necessary in order to facilitate the process of promoting Intellectual Property and this has to be ensured by organizations like FICCI.
